Experiencing the Diversity of Practical Phlebology

Dear colleagues and friends of phlebology,

Phlebology is an attractive field with an interdisciplinary approach. Due to its roots in dermatology, angiology and vascular surgery, trying to condense its wide-ranging topics into compact training formats is particularly challenging.

Our new advanced training series tackles this challenge.

“Xperience meets Enthusiasm” aims to bring together aspiring colleagues from all disciplines who are interested in phlebology with colleagues experienced in the field. The programme will offer an overview of phlebology across its entire spectrum, demonstrate state-of-the-art treatment methods and provide useful tips for practical phlebology. We would like you to experience the symposium as an advanced training opportunity for your daily work.

Our goal is to provide a comprehensive insight into current phlebological topics to doctors working in hospitals and outpatient settings, professionals returning to the field, therapists and medical retailers.

The phlebology symposium offers an excellent opportunity for inspiring discussion and debate.

I look forward to meeting you online!

Sincerely yours,

Tobias Görge
